Primary General Education Designation: Social and Behavioral (Note: A minimum grade of C is required for general education)

Text and Required Materials:

- 1. Introduction to Law and the Legal System (11th Ed.)—Frank Schubert; ISBN: 978-1-285-43825-2
- 2. Law & The Legal Process: Supplemental Reading (eBook) Joseph Rivera; ISBN: 9781792439162

Course Description:

This survey course promotes an understanding of the law as it relates to everyday encounters with the legal system. Actual legal cases may be studied to analyze how disputes are resolved by the application of legal principles to factual situations, whether justice was served by the decision and the potential implications of the decision on future cases.

Student Learning Outcomes (SLOs):

After completing this course, you should be able to:

- (1) Familiarize and work well in a group setting with other classmates. For this, you will be assigned to a group to complete three group activities. In order to do this successfully, students must have understood the material, thought critically about the scenario they were assigned, and discuss the application of the case law to solve a particular problem. This often requires students to discuss cases that work in favor of their case and to discuss cases that work against it, which then requires the students to make real-world decisions, such as sacrificing legal issues or distinguishing prior case law from their present scenario.
- (2) Read case law and discuss those cases in a group or class setting. To improve your critical thinking, I follow a Socratic Method, requiring students to discuss legal cases in class. During these discussions, students will be guided to better understand the legal issues and rationales being expressed by the judges. You will also be encouraged to examine the cases critically in order to help you to understand the implications of the cases within the context of the greater society.
- (3) Discuss the relevance of case law as it applies to the assigned materials. For this, you will be required to watch several documentaries dealing with complex legal issues, so that you can learn more about the disparity between the law you learn in class and the law in practice in the real world. Following, you will be required to write papers summarizing the events that you observed in the films and tying in the legal material we covered in class. This helps you to see in more concrete terms how the law we learn may or may not always be applied, and it helps you to better place the law in context with what you learn in your other classes.

Grading:

- Participation—30%. There will be 18 class days that are graded, and each day will be worth 1.67% of your grade.
- Activity—15%. There are 3 group activities due in the course, and each will be worth 5% of your grade.
- Papers—15%. There are 3 papers due in the course, and each paper will be worth 5% of your grade.
- Quizzes—20%. There are 8 quizzes, and each quiz will be worth 2.5% of your grade.
- Exams—20%. There are 2 exams, and each exam will be worth 10% of your grade.

This course uses a +/- grading scale:

- A = 94 +
- A = 90—93
- B + = 87 89
- B = 83—86
- B = 80-82
- C + = 77 79

- C = 73—76
- C = 70—72
- D + = 67 69
- D = 63 66
- D = 60 62
- E = 59 and below

Attendance:

Although not built into the course requirements, regular attendance is strongly recommended and the best guarantee of succeeding in the class. Regular attendance will better ensure that you engage in and properly absorb readings and lecture material.

Participation:

This course will follow the Socratic Method. Be prepared to come to class able to participate in class discussions. In your reading assignments, you will be directed to read specific legal cases. As such, to earn full credit for class participation, you must read the cases and chapters that you are assigned and be prepared to answer questions pertaining to the assigned readings out loud in class. You must also submit on canvas the day before class a confirmation that you have read and that you are prepared to be called on in class. If you submit a confirmation, but you are not prepared to discuss the cases when you are called upon, you will receive a zero for participation that day. If that happens, you will not be able to make up the points by completing the discussion.

Activities:

There are three group activities. Two activities will be due at the end of module 5. You will need to work as a group to submit these assignments. Mostly the group activities are fictional legal scenarios that force you to apply the case law you are required to read throughout the course to answer specific questions. The group assignments require you to have power point installed on your computer. This software is provided for free by the university, so just google "Microsoft office" and "University of Florida." I will also provide you with a link on Canvas on the "Start Here" page.

Papers:

Exact due dates will be available on Canvas. There are five films that you will watch over the course of the semester, and you may choose to write a paper on any three. Your paper must be submitted on Canvas, or it will not be accepted.

Film Disclaimer:

The opinions presented in the films are those of the film makers (not your instructor) and are not intended to endorse any systemic theories. You are not required to agree with the material being presented. Instead, you should focus on applying the law you learn in class to the events in the film. A better paper is one where a student remains skeptical of the material being presented and fully evaluates all sides of the material discussed in the films.

Group Activities:

There are three group activities due in the course. There are two group activities assigned in module 5 and one group activity assigned in module 9. You must work with your group to complete this assignment. You will be given a legal scenario, and afterwards you must work with your group to answer the questions presented. Full credit will be given to the groups who correctly discuss the cases and answer all of the questions. Your group's assignment must be: at least 5 pages, double spaced, using size 12 times new roman font, and submitted on Canvas.

Exams:

All exams will be on Canvas. You will only get one attempt to take the exam. You will need to download and install Respondus Lockdown Browser. A link to that software will be made available on Canvas. Just go to the home page and click on the "start here" button. Again, after you submit your exam, YOU WILL NOT BE GIVEN THE CORRECT ANSWERS. So, you need to know what material and questions you felt less familiar with when taking the quizzes and focus on that to study before you take the exam. If you have specific questions about what you got wrong or about material you did not understand on the exam, you can post in the general discussion for course questions or email the instructor.

Make-up Work Policy:

For those students who are unable to attend class, you may complete a discussion assignment. You must have permission to submit a discussion in lieu of participating in class. If you have a legitimate excuse—for example, are unable to speak in front of the class—please speak with your instructor, and you may be given permission to complete the discussions instead of submitting your name. However, even if you have been given permission to complete the discussions, you should still attend class if you are able. Otherwise, you will fall behind in the course. All make-up work is the student's responsibility! If you know you may miss a class, inform your instructor as soon as possible. Without appropriate documentation, class assignments cannot be made up.

Classroom Rules of Conduct:

The instructor has the primary responsibility for control over class behavior and may order temporary removal or exclusion of students from the discussions who disrupt the class or who violate the general policies of the College. Disruptive conduct shall include, but is not limited to, any offensive or rude behavior directed toward the instructor or other students during the discussion forums.

Attendance Policy:

Requirements for class attendance and make-up exams, assignments, and other work in this course are consistent with university policies that can be found at: https://catalog.ufl.edu/ugrad/current/regulations/info/attendance.aspx.

Students Requiring Accommodation:

Students with disabilities who experience learning barriers and would like to request academic accommodations should connect with the Disability Resource Center by visiting https://disability.ufl.edu/students/get-started/. It is important for students to share their accommodation letter with their instructor and discuss their access needs, as early as possible in the semester.

UF Evaluations Process:

Students are expected to provide professional and respectful feedback on the quality of instruction in this course by completing course evaluations online via GatorEvals. Guidance on how to give feedback in a professional and respectful manner is available at https://gatorevals.aa.ufl.edu/students/. Students will be notified when the evaluation period opens, and can complete evaluations through the email they receive from GatorEvals, in their Canvas course menu under GatorEvals, or via https://ufl.bluera.com/ufl/. Summaries of course evaluation results are available to students at https://gatorevals.aa.ufl.edu/public-results/.

University Honesty Policy:

UF students are bound by The Honor Pledge which states, "We, the members of the University of Florida community, pledge to hold ourselves and our peers to the highest standards of honor and integrity by abiding by the Honor Code." On all work submitted for credit by students at the University of Florida, the following pledge is either required or implied: "On my honor, I have neither given nor received unauthorized aid in doing this assignment." The Honor Code

https://www.dso.ufl.edu/sccr/process/student-conduct-honor-code/) specifies a number of behaviors that are in violation of this code and the possible sanctions. Furthermore, you are obligated to report any condition that facilitates academic misconduct to appropriate personnel. If you have any questions or concerns, please consult with the instructor or TAs in this class.

History:

Historical background and sociological/criminological concepts about law and the legal process are components of this course. Multiple sources, types of evidence, and interpretations are included, and differing interpretations of historical events are discussed with an emphasis on diverse theoretical perspectives rather than privileging one over the other. The class emphasizes maintaining accuracy and objectivity and skills to evaluate evidence and claims. Discussions of history are case- or data-driven rather than rooted in ideology or advocacy, and students can draw their own conclusions. Grading of assignments and/or exams focuses on understanding of content rather than adopting a specific opinion.

Identity:

Law and the legal process may touch on topics germane to identity, but as subjects of study and not advocacy; in that spirit, we routinely teach on diverse theoretical perspectives rather than privileging one over the other. Discussion of identity are case- or data-driven rather than rooted in ideology or advocacy. Grading of assignments and/or exams focuses on understanding of content rather than adopting a specific opinion.

Systemic Inequality:

The course may discuss systemic theories as they relate to sociological/ criminological perspectives on law and the legal process, but it considers them in the context of other theoretical approaches, and includes critique of all theoretical perspectives. The course does not endorse concepts of systemic racism, sexism, oppression, or privilege. It also does not treat inequalities or injustice as inherent, but instead discusses theoretical perspectives that explain whether and how social structures may create and reproduce inequalities. Such processes are viewed as contingent and negotiated and often contested rather than natural or determined. The course cites relevant facts based on research demonstrating how institutions are social contexts that shape inequalities within the United States and globally. Discussions of various interpretations are case- or data-driven rather than driven by an ideology. Grading of assignments and/or exams focuses on understanding of content rather than adopting a specific opinion.
