Course Description

This course is designed to introduce students to some of the major issues related to marriage and families, with a focus on sociological perspectives, policy implications, and an emphasis on diversity. This course will introduce you to the historical and contemporary contexts that have shaped the meanings and importance of families in society. We emphasize the diversity of people and families in the United States and other highly industrialized societies, while drawing insights from cross-cultural and historical comparisons. Specifically, we cover the development of masculine and feminine roles, recent changes in premarital interaction (e.g., dating, sexual involvement, coed dorm living, living together), mutual adjustment and parenthood, and alternative family structures.

A note about course content: SYG 2430 introduces students to issues related to marriage and families. The content includes historical and contemporary contexts that encompass differences in family formation and structure. Multiple sources of evidence are included and are discussed in light of multiple theoretical perspectives. Consideration of the content highlights comparisons without privileging one interpretation over another. The class emphasizes accuracy and objectivity in evaluating evidence and claims. Discussions are data-driven rather than rooted in ideology or advocacy. SYG 2430 may touch on topics germane to identity, but as subjects of study and not advocacy.

The course is comprised of recorded lectures developed with Dr. Koropecj-Cox (UF sociology) & supplemented materials from various source to enhance the understanding. There will not be live meetings nor in-person meetings in this course.

Learning Outcomes

This section of SYG 2430 fulfills General Education requirements (S), but does NOT fulfill the Writing Requirement. There are no pre-requisites for the course.

- Social and Behavioral Sciences (S): Social and behavioral science courses provide instruction in the history, key themes, principles, terminology, and underlying theory or methodologies used in the social and behavioral sciences. Students will learn to identify, describe, and explain social institutions, structures, or processes. These courses emphasize the effective application of accepted problem-solving techniques. Students will apply formal and informal qualitative or quantitative analysis to examine the processes and means by which individuals make personal and group decisions, as well as the evaluation of opinions, outcomes or human behavior. Students are expected to assess and analyze ethical perspectives in individual and societal decisions.
- As a General Education Course, SYG2430 is designed to address each of the following General Education Student Learning Outcomes (SLO) regarding content, communication, and critical thinking.

Area	Common outcomes	Course-specific outcomes
Content Knowledge of the concepts, principles, terminology, and methodologies used within the discipline.	Students demonstrate competence in the terminology, concepts, methodologies, and theories used within the discipline. The Content SLO is assessed through the exams and reviewed in the class discussion.	Students understand the core ideas in the sociology of the family and use these concepts to describe historical patterns of marriage and families. Their knowledge of substantive and methodological topics is assessed through exams.
Communication Development and expression of ideas in written and oral forms.	Students communicate knowledge, ideas, and reasoning clearly and effectively in written or oral forms appropriate to the discipline. The Communication SLO is assessed through the in-class group activities.	Students communicate primary issues in marriage and families using basic terms and concepts from the sociology of the family. A series of group activities allows them to engage in ongoing communication with their group members.
Critical Thinking Comprehensive analysis of issues, ideas, and evidence before accepting or formulating an opinion or conclusion.	Students analyze information carefully and logically from multiple perspectives, using discipline-specific methods, and develop reasoned solutions to problems. The Critical Thinking SLO is assessed through specific questions on the exams as well as the writing assignment and in-class group activities.	Students learn how to read and interpret diverse types of data about marriage and families. Through group activities, they work with empirical examples from research papers or policy reports. Through the writing assignment, they apply what they've learned to the cases of their own families.

Course Materials

Required textbook --
The Family: Diversity, Inequality, and Social Change
(4th edition. 2024)
By Philip N Cohen

- This textbook has been selected in part because of its affordability. This course is participating in UF All Access (<https://www.bsd.ufl.edu/AllAccess/>), which provides access to the eBook from the first day and is billed to your UF bill. See Canvas for more information on how to sign up.
- Alternatively, you may buy or rent a new or used hard copy - choose the option that works best for you. You do not need to purchase access to the publisher's materials online (InQuizitive).
- I do not recommend buying the earlier edition – the content has changed, and all exams, reading assignments, and coursework will use the 4th edition.

Additional readings will be available for free through Canvas.

The course readings encompass multiple theoretical perspectives and interpretations, as well as different sources and types of evidence. Our use of readings will highlight critical engagement of all perspectives and evidence covered, rather than endorsing one perspective over others.

Course Requirements

Course Format

This is a fully online course. Online classes are not easier than face-to-face lecture classes. To succeed in an online class, you must be extremely motivated and well organized. You will need to purchase the required textbook listed above by the first day of the course. Other course materials are available via Canvas. As in all courses, unauthorized recording and unauthorized sharing of recorded materials is prohibited.

A computer with a reliable internet connection is required for this course. If you experience issues with Canvas, please contact the UF Computing Help Desk by phone (352)392-HELP, or visit their physical location in the HUB (<http://helpdesk.ufl.edu/>).

The typical class structure will consist of learning modules in Canvas, which include:

- Watch video/PowerPoint lectures
- Read assigned chapters
- Participate in online discussions
- Take Quizzes
- Complete Written Exercises

It is important to understand that this is not a self-paced class or an independent study. You will have assigned deadlines, and work must be submitted on time. You may not save up your assignments to complete in the last weeks or days of the semester. We have no face-to-face class meetings, and you will complete your work asynchronously - which simply means that you will be working on it at different times than your colleagues. You can log into the class to do your work at whatever time is convenient for you as long as you are meeting class deadlines (usually Sundays at midnight).

Course Communication and Feedback

Email – I will be communicating with you regarding grades and assignments. If you need to get in touch with me, the best method is via email. Generally, I will reply to emails within 24 hours and will provide feedback on assignments within 72 hours. You may also post questions pertaining to the course on the General Discussion Board. These questions will be answered within 24 hours. All email and other communication in the course should be respectful, civil, and professional – see Netiquette Guidelines in Canvas.

Canvas - If you are having trouble with this course or its material, you may also send messages to me through the Canvas system (using the “Inbox” function on the left-hand side). Announcements will be posted to this course whenever necessary. Please do check your Canvas email regularly, and make sure your Canvas emails are being forwarded to your UF email address.

Course Assignments and Grading

Assignment Weights	Percent
Discussion boards (4 x 50) + responses (4 x 10)	30%
Quizzes (6 x 40)	30%
Response paper (2 x 160)	40%
Total	100%

Syllabus Quiz & Small Polls

At the beginning of the course, there will be a quiz on this syllabus, to ensure we all start the course with the same understanding and expectations [You will only be able to progress to subsequent modules once you have achieved full marks]. The quiz will be available on Canvas under the “Quizzes” tab. You will also complete 2 small polls/quizzes throughout the semester. These points will be given as bonus at the end of the semester and will NOT appear on Canvas grade. (worth 10 points total)

Student Questionnaire - 5 points

Sexuality Knowledge Quiz - 5 points

Quizzes

Seven quizzes will be assigned. Quizzes can be found on Canvas under the “Quizzes” tab and will be automatically evaluated. Quiz questions/answers are randomly displayed and drawn from substantial test banks which cover the previous and current week's readings and lectures. Quizzes will be open for the duration of the week (Monday 12:00 am to Sunday 11:59 pm). You will have 35 minutes to complete each quiz. Your lowest quiz grade will be dropped at the end of the semester. (worth 240 points total)

Discussion Boards

For 5 weeks, you will be required to comment on the Discussion Board on Canvas. Specific prompts and instructions (including length of your post) will be specified within each Discussion Board. Each week that you post on the Discussion Board, you should also respond to two other posts. Your initial posts are worth 50 points each and are due by Friday 11:59 pm each week (this is to allow enough time for responses). Each response to another student is worth 5 points apiece and are due by Sunday 11:59 pm. The discussion board will be open at the beginning of the prior module to give you time to review the module instructions and complete any assigned work as part of the module. (worth 240 points total)

Response Paper

You will submit 2 response papers over the course of the semester. These assignments are designed to allow you to explore sociological research, media, and current events in your area of interest in relation to our course. Each assignment's page (under the "Assignments" tab on Canvas) will include specific instructions as well as a detailed rubric. These assignments generally require substantial time and effort. The instructions will be available several weeks before their respective due dates –please plan accordingly. (worth 320 points total)

Response Paper 1 – Exploring Sociological Research – 160 points.

Response Paper 2 – Media Analysis – 160 points.

Course Policies

Attendance Policy – Success in this course is dependent on your active participation throughout the semester. You are expected to log into Canvas several times a week and complete course assignments. Even if your work is completed, you still need to login to ensure that you have seen all announcements, etc. It is your responsibility to check updates related to the course. Attendance will be taken based on your completion of course assignments. You will receive a 0 on all missed assignments unless you have a valid excuse (<https://catalog.ufl.edu/UGRD/academic-regulations/attendance-policies/>) with documentation (<https://care.dso.ufl.edu/instructor-notifications/>).

Make Up Work – Discussion boards, quizzes, and small polls will be open for the duration of the weekly topic they cover. Larger assignments are done on your own time, with advance notice of due dates.

- Discussion boards require engagement with other students; therefore, late Discussion posts and responses will not be accepted.
- Late quizzes (within one week of the posted deadline only) will count for no more than half credit (up to 25 points).
- Response papers submitted late will have points deducted (10% per day, up to 5 days or 50%) unless you have made specific prior arrangements with the instructor. Any assignments submitted more than 5 days late will not count for credit.

Respect – Disrespectful behavior will not be tolerated in our class. Our virtual classroom will serve as a place where everyone has a chance to speak and learn. As we communicate throughout the semester online, I expect each of us to listen and hear other students' experiences and respect our differences.

Academic Honesty – You are expected to comply with the University of Florida Honor Code, which states:

We, the members of the University of Florida community, pledge to hold ourselves and our peers to the highest standards of honesty and integrity. On all work submitted for credit by students at the University of Florida, the following pledge is either required or implied: "On my honor, I have neither given nor received unauthorized aid in doing this assignment."

Plagiarism and cheating will not be tolerated in this course. UF's full Honor Code can be found here: <https://www.dso.ufl.edu/sccr/process/student-conduct-honor-code/>.

All assignments submitted through Canvas in this course are run through the plagiarism checker, Turnitin.

Disability Accommodations – Students requiring accommodations must first register with the Disability Resource Center (DRC). The DRC will provide you with a Letter of Accommodations, which should be submitted to me as soon as possible in the course. The DRC is located in Reid Hall and can be found online here: <https://disability.ufl.edu/students/accommodations/>.

Course Evaluation – At the end of each semester, students are expected to provide professional and respectful feedback on the quality of instruction in this course by completing course evaluations online via GatorEvals. Guidance on how to give feedback in a professional and respectful manner is available at <https://gatorevals.aa.ufl.edu/students/>. Students will be notified when the evaluation period opens and can complete evaluations through the email they receive from GatorEvals, in their Canvas course menu under GatorEvals, or via <https://ufl.bluera.com/ufl/>. Summaries of course evaluation results are available to students at <https://gatorevals.aa.ufl.edu/public-results/>.

Course Recording – Publication without permission of the instructor is prohibited. To “publish” means to share, transmit, circulate, distribute, or provide access to a recording, regardless of format or medium, to another person (or persons), including but not limited to another student within the same class section. Additionally, a recording, or transcript of a recording, is considered published if it is posted on or uploaded to, in whole or in part, any media platform, including but not limited to social media, book, magazine, newspaper, leaflet, or third-party note/tutoring services. A student who publishes a recording without written consent may be subject to a civil cause of action instituted by a person injured by the publication and/or discipline under UF Regulation 4.040 Student Honor Code and Student Conduct Code.
